- Requests to leave your accommodation are handled separately under your contract

Support available

You don't have to do this alone — support is available from:

- Students' Union Advice Centre
- Friends or family (with your consent)

If you need adjustments (e.g. different formats or extra support), let us know.

Our commitment to you

We will:

- Treat your complaint seriously and fairly
- Respond within clear timescales
- Keep you informed throughout

We'll also use feedback to improve our services.

1. Purpose of Procedure

Residential Services (RS) is committed to resolving concerns promptly, fairly, and proportionately. Wherever possible, concerns will be addressed informally in the first instance.

The purpose of this procedure is to provide a clear, fair, and transparent process for students to raise concerns or complaints about services or facilities provided by RS.

The procedure aims to ensure that complaints are considered carefully, investigated where appropriate, and resolved in a timely and consistent manner. It also provides RS with the opportunity to identify areas for improvement and enhance the quality of accommodation services provided to residents.

The University is committed to handling complaints respectfully, impartially, and in accordance with its policies, legal obligations, and recognised sector guidance.

Students are encouraged to raise concerns promptly so that issues can be addressed at the earliest opportunity and, where possible, resolved informally before progressing to a formal complaint.

2. Scope and Exclusions

This procedure applies to complaints about the services or facilities provided by, or on behalf of, RS.

This procedure relates only to concerns about the standard of service, facilities, or actions taken by RS in the delivery and management of university accommodation. It does not replace or override other University policies, procedures, or statutory processes.

This procedure applies to accommodation services delivered directly by the University and to accommodation provided through the University's approved accommodation partners.

Residents are expected to familiarise themselves with the University's Residence Regulations, accommodation terms, and any guidance provided. Where this information has been made available, a lack of awareness will not normally be accepted as grounds for complaint.

This procedure is intended to consider whether RS has acted reasonably, fairly, and in accordance with its policies and legal obligations. It does not normally substitute the University's academic, contractual, or operational judgment with that of the complainant.

The University may apply this procedure flexibly where necessary to ensure a fair, proportionate, and timely investigation. Any variation to the procedure will be applied in a way that does not disadvantage the student.

The submission of a complaint under this procedure does not normally suspend or delay any contractual, disciplinary, tenancy management, or operational action being taken by the University. The University may continue to progress other relevant processes where appropriate.

Where a complaint falls outside the scope of this procedure, the University will advise the student of the appropriate alternative process to follow.

This procedure does not normally cover the following matters:

Matter	How it is handled
Anonymous complaints	Normally not investigated unless there is a compelling reason
Matters already considered under another University procedure	Handled under the relevant University procedure
Academic appeals, assessment outcomes, or admissions decisions	Considered under the University's Academic Appeals or Admissions procedures
Complaints about staff conduct	Managed through the University's staff conduct procedures
Requests to end or be released from an accommodation agreement	Considered under the terms of the accommodation agreement and relevant housing legislation (see Occupation Contracts section)
Matters subject to legal proceedings or insurance claims	Normally handled through the relevant legal or insurance process

3. Occupation Contracts:

Requests to end or be released from a contract are not normally handled through the complaint process, as that process is designed to review concerns about the service provided by Residential Services, not contractual liability.

Your accommodation agreement is a legally binding contract, and requests to be released are considered in line with the terms of the agreement and relevant housing legislation.

However, if you believe there has been an issue with how your agreement was issued or administered (for example, that you were provided with incorrect or misleading information), you can raise this as a complaint. We will review whether the process was followed appropriately.

Verbal advice or informal discussions do not override the terms of the accommodation agreement. Only formal written confirmation issued by Residential Services will be considered binding.

Nothing in this procedure affects a resident's statutory rights under housing law, including rights under the Renting Homes \(Wales\) Act 2016 relating to property condition, repairs, fitness for human habitation, or occupation contract rights.

4. Interaction with Other University Processes

Submitting a complaint does not normally affect ongoing contractual, disciplinary, or operational processes.

Where issues raised within a complaint overlap with other University procedures, the University may determine the most appropriate process for considering the matter and may pause or redirect elements of the complaint where necessary.

Students are expected to provide all relevant information and evidence at the earliest opportunity so that their complaint can be investigated fairly and efficiently.

5. What is a student complaint?

A student complaint is an expression of dissatisfaction about action or inaction by RS or the quality of services provided by or on behalf of the University. This includes concerns related to buildings and services managed by RS. This procedure does not normally cover the behaviour of other students; however, complaints about how RS has responded to such issues may be considered.

The University will normally only consider complaints submitted by the student directly affected unless written consent has been provided for a third party to act on their behalf.

Complaints about fellow students should be directed to the University's Dignity at Work and Study (Combating Harassment) Policy. Harassment, bullying, or discrimination complaints should be addressed to a trained Harassment Adviser. Complaints regarding admissions should be referred to the Admissions Complaints and Appeal Procedures.

6. Submitting a complaint and support

Students may seek advice or support when submitting a complaint and may be accompanied or represented by a third party (for example, the Students' Union Advice Centre, a friend, or a family member), provided the student gives written consent for RS to correspond with that person.

Students who require reasonable adjustments to access this procedure, including alternative formats or additional support, are encouraged to contact RS as early as possible so appropriate arrangements can be made. Reasonable adjustments may include extended timescales, alternative formats, or support from a third party.

- 1) Complaints must be submitted via the Complaint Form.
- 2) Complaints should normally be submitted by the resident. Where a student is supported or represented by a third party, the complaint must be made with the student's knowledge and written consent.
- 3) Complaints should be made as early as possible. Students should be aware that any lengthy delay may limit the way in which the University can investigate the complaint or the University's ability to put things right.

Complaints submitted outside the stated time limits will not normally be considered unless there is a compelling reason for delay.

This procedure will also apply to former students at Swansea University who have left residences if the complaint is made within 3 months of leaving university residences or within 3 months of the date of the event(s) giving rise to the complaint, whichever is the earlier date.

7. Timeliness of Complaints

Complaints should be raised as soon as reasonably practicable after the event(s) giving rise to the concern. The University may decline to investigate complaints where there has been an unreasonable delay in raising the matter and where the delay may affect the University's ability to investigate the issue fairly or effectively.

The complaints procedure is intended to review concerns about service delivery or procedural fairness. It is not normally used to challenge contractual obligations or other University processes unless there is evidence that those processes have not been followed correctly.

The relevant process relating to your accommodation contract will therefore continue in accordance with the terms of the contract and the Renting Homes (Wales) Act 2016 while your complaint is considered.

All complaints are reviewed at an appropriate level of seniority and, at the Final Review stage, by a decision-maker independent of the original investigation

10. Stage 1: Informal Resolution

Complaints raising concerns about student safety, safeguarding, or serious health and safety risks may be prioritised and managed outside the standard timescales set out in this procedure and may be referred to other University processes where appropriate.

Students are encouraged to raise concerns directly with Residence Reception or Residential Services so issues can be addressed as early as possible.

Informal concerns will normally be reviewed and addressed by the relevant Residence Manager or an appropriate member of Residential Services staff, depending on the nature of the issue.

Most complaints can be resolved at this stage with the individuals involved.

Where appropriate, Residential Services may offer an early resolution meeting or mediation to help resolve the issue.

Students are encouraged to engage with this stage, as it is often the most effective way to resolve concerns.

Students will not be disadvantaged or treated less favourably for raising a complaint in good faith.

11. Before submitting a formal complaint

Before submitting a formal complaint, students are encouraged to ensure that:

- The concern has first been raised informally where possible.
- All relevant information and supporting evidence have been gathered.
- The outcome being sought has been clearly explained.

Providing clear information at the outset helps the University investigate the matter efficiently and effectively.

12. Stage 2: Formal Written Complaint

If a concern cannot be resolved informally, the student may submit a formal complaint using the Complaint Form.

Formal Complaint – Submission Requirements and Review Process

Requirement	Detail
When to submit	Formal complaints should normally be submitted within 20 working days of the response to the informal complaint, or within three months of the event giving rise to the complaint where no informal complaint was raised
Late submissions	Complaints submitted outside these time limits will not normally be considered , unless the complainant can demonstrate a compelling reason for the delay (for example, illness, disability, or significant personal circumstances).
How to submit	Formal complaints must be submitted via the Complaint Form .
Who reviews the complaint?	Stage 2 complaints are reviewed by the Head of RS, or by an appropriate senior officer, where it would be inappropriate for the Head of RS to consider the complaint. RS will normally aim to provide a written response to a formal complaint within 20 working days of the complaint being acknowledged.

The written complaint should set out the following:

Required information	What this means
Summary of the complaint	A brief, clear description of the issue, including relevant events, dates, and times.

Informal steps taken	Details of any informal action already taken to resolve the matter, including the names of staff involved and the outcome(s).
Reason for dissatisfaction	An explanation of why you remain dissatisfied with the outcome to date.
Outcome sought	A statement of the resolution or outcome you would like to see. This helps the University understand your expectations, although the University will determine the appropriate outcome following investigation.
Supporting evidence	Copies of any relevant documents or correspondence that support your complaint (for example, emails, photographs, or records).

The University may determine an alternative or proportionate outcome following investigation, even where this differs from the resolution initially requested.

The University will normally acknowledge receipt of a formal complaint within 5 working days

The University will normally aim to complete Stages 2 and 3 within 90 working days of the start of Stage 2.

Where relevant, the student may be provided with a summary of evidence considered in reaching a decision, subject to data protection and confidentiality obligations.

Evidence may include relevant records, correspondence, reports, or information obtained from staff or contractors.

Where a complaint relates directly to the Head of RS, or where it would otherwise be inappropriate for them to review the complaint, the University will appoint an alternative senior officer to consider the matter at Stage 2.

13. Stage 3: Final Review

Requirement	Detail
How to request a final review	Requests must be submitted in writing to the Director of Education Services (the “Director”) by completing the Final Review Form .
Submission deadline	Requests must be made within 14 working days of the date of the decision being reviewed.
Late submissions	Requests received outside this time limit will not normally be considered unless the student demonstrates a compelling reason for the delay.
Eligibility decision	Where a request is deemed not eligible for consideration, the student will be notified of this outcome in writing .
Completion of procedures	Once the Final Review stage has concluded, the student will be issued with a Completion of Procedures letter , confirming that the University’s internal complaints process has been exhausted.
External review (OIA)	If the student remains dissatisfied, they may refer the matter to the Office of the Independent Adjudicator for Higher Education (OIA) in accordance with the OIA’s rules and time limits.

Any complaint to the Office of the Independent Adjudicator must be submitted within 12 months of the date of the Completion of Procedures letter.

When a review can be requested

The Final Review will not normally re-investigate the complaint but will consider whether the procedure was followed correctly, whether the decision was reasonable based on the evidence available, and whether the outcome was proportionate. No new evidence will normally be considered at this stage unless there is a compelling reason why it could not have been provided earlier. The Final Review will be conducted by a senior officer who has had no prior involvement in the handling or decision-making of the complaint.

14. Outcomes

Outcomes will be determined based on the evidence available and the University's policies, contractual obligations, and legal duties.

Where a complaint is upheld, outcomes may include one or more of the following:

Outcome type	Examples
Explanation or apology	Clarification of decision, acknowledgement of error
Corrective action	Repairs, service adjustments, process correction
Service improvement	Review or amendment of procedures
Financial remedy	Refund or compensation, where appropriate, in line with the University's Compensation Policy.

Not all complaints will result in a specific remedy, and the outcome will depend on the circumstances of each case.

Any financial remedy will be considered in line with the University's Compensation Policy and will not normally exceed the financial loss or impact experienced.

Complaints may be upheld, partly upheld, or not upheld, depending on the findings. Where a complaint relates to the conduct of a member of university staff, the outcome will focus on the service provided to the student. Any action relating to staff conduct or performance will be managed separately under the University's internal procedures and will not normally be disclosed to the complainant.

At the conclusion of the Final Review stage, the University will issue a Completion of Procedures letter, confirming that the internal complaints process has been exhausted. This letter explains how the student may refer the matter to the Office of the Independent Adjudicator for Higher Education.

15. Service Disruption and Inconvenience

The University recognises that from time-to-time residents may experience temporary disruption arising from maintenance works, repairs, inspections, or operational activities necessary for the safe and effective management of accommodation.

Minor inconvenience or short-term disruption will not normally constitute a service failure and will not normally result in financial compensation.

Where a complaint is upheld, any financial remedy will be considered only where a significant service failure has materially affected the reasonable use of the accommodation.

16. Relationship with Accommodation Agreements

The submission of a complaint under this procedure does not suspend or delay the operation of any obligations or actions arising under a resident's accommodation agreement, Occupation Contract, or the University's Residence Regulations.

This applies to circumstances where disciplinary, contractual, or tenancy management actions are being considered or progressed.

This includes, but is not limited to:

- Payment of accommodation fees.
- Compliance with residence regulations.

- Contractual notice periods.
- Disciplinary processes.
- Termination or recovery of accommodation.

Complaints relating to such matters will normally be considered alongside the relevant contractual or disciplinary processes but will not prevent the University from taking action where appropriate.

17. Financial Matters

Students are required to continue to pay their accommodation fees during a complaint investigation, in line with their agreed tenancy dates. Failure to do so may result in the account being passed to debt collection, which could lead to additional charges.

Where a complaint or appeal is upheld, and a financial remedy is considered appropriate, compensation or a refund will be assessed in accordance with the University's Compensation Policy.

Financial remedies may be considered only where a significant service failure has materially affected the reasonable use of the accommodation and will apply only to the affected period.

Any financial remedy awarded will be proportionate, based on the net rent paid, and will reflect the nature, duration, and impact of the service failure. Where compensation is approved, it will normally be applied as a rent rebate or account credit, unless otherwise agreed.

Compensation is not a substitute for the University's obligation to remedy service failures and restore accommodation to an appropriate standard.

18. Confidentiality and Data Protection

All complaints will be handled sensitively and confidentially, in line with the University's Data Protection Policy and the UK General Data Protection Regulation (UK GDPR). Information will be shared only with those who need to be involved in investigating and resolving the complaint.

19. Managing Repetitive, Vexatious or Unreasonable Complaints

The University will consider all complaints fairly and in good faith. However, the University may decline to consider a complaint, or may place reasonable limits on communication, where the complaint is:

- frivolous, vexatious, or malicious
- repetitive or substantially similar to matters already considered and concluded.
- where this impacts the University's ability to respond effectively
- submitted in a manner that is abusive, threatening, or unreasonable toward staff.

Where a complaint raises issues that have already been fully considered through this procedure, the University may decline to re-investigate the matter and may issue a Completion of Procedures letter.

The University may also take proportionate steps to manage unreasonable levels of contact or repeated submissions relating to the same matter, in accordance with the University's Managing Unreasonable Behaviour policy.

20. Completion of Procedures

Once the University's internal complaints procedure has concluded, the student will be issued with a Completion of Procedures letter. This confirms that the University's internal process has been exhausted and explains how the student may refer the matter to the Office of the Independent Adjudicator for Higher Education (OIA).

The written response will include the reasons for the decision, any remedy offered, and information about the student's right to request a Final Review.

Students are encouraged to engage fully with the University's complaints process and to provide all relevant information at the earliest opportunity so that concerns can be considered and resolved as effectively as possible.

Students may refer their complaint to the Office of the Independent Adjudicator within 12 months of the date of the Completion of Procedures letter.

21. Paying your Accommodation Fees

Submitting a complaint does not normally affect contractual obligations, including payment of accommodation fees, unless confirmed otherwise in writing.

If you experience financial problems while you are dealing with a complaint, have trouble paying your accommodation fees or:

Have a query relating to your invoice.

- Have not received your Student Loan.
- Are experiencing genuine financial hardship.

For students who have not received their Student Loan or are experiencing financial hardship, advice and assistance is available from Moneyadvice@swansea.ac.uk

22. Unreasonable or Abusive Behaviour

The University is committed to handling complaints fairly and respectfully. However, where a complainant's behaviour is considered unreasonable, abusive, or excessive, the University may apply restrictions in line with its Managing Unreasonable Behaviour policy, while ensuring that the complaint itself is still considered appropriately.
